Kumusta

With the help of Punong Lakan Garitony Nicolas the MAMFMA Founder, the FMAdigest was able to obtain the listings of the Business Name Registration System (BNRS) and the Securities and Exchange Commission of the Philippines.

You ask so what? Well now you shall know who is registered and who is (How they say in America) working under the table. Really not a big deal for all the Instructors I have met in the Philippines thus far, are more than qualified in their art it is just a question on what style you prefer to learn and gain knowledge.

The FMAdigest is asked quit often on who they recommend to visit while someone is visiting the Philippines. The FMAdigest has no favorites for each Grandmaster, Master, Guro is very good and each style is unique in its own way. It is just a matter of personal preference. So included is all the schools in the Philippines that the FMAdigest has listed on the website. Just visit the page to obtain the Email or the personal Website of the school you are interested in.

Also is asked where to buy equipment, books, videos or sometimes a particular service while in the Philippines. So I have listed what is advertised on the FMAdigest Website and that has been advertised in one of the Regular Issues. I know there are more companies in the Philippines that sell equipment, books, and videos or private individuals that also sell the same, but this is what is known to the FMAdigest.

So I hope this Special Issue is of some value to you the reader. And I know there maybe some practitioners that maybe registered, but they did not show up on the lists of the Business Name Registration System (BNRS) or the Securities and Exchange Commission of the Philippines.

Maraming Salamat Po

Mr. Arvino Logarta has been studying Arnis/Kali/Escrima since 1994. After studying Modern Arnis under different teachers he is now studying under Sir Mark Santos. He is a true blue Filipino martial arts practitioner who has studied Arnis/Kali/Escrima the “Old School” way. Yes that means studying full contact without protections or armor that is used today. He has studied directly under Grandmaster Ernesto Presas, brother of Grandmaster Remy Presas who is the father of Modern Arnis. Sir Mark Santos also had the rare and great privilege of studying Kali Ilustrisimo under the legendary Tatang Ilustrisimo himself for one and a half years.

Sir Mark Santos started studying martial arts when he was 6 years old. He first started studying judo and later on when he was 11 years old he started studying under Grandmaster Ernesto Presas. Under Grandmaster Presas, Sir Mark Santos studied Modern Arnis and knife fighting, Karate, Judo, Kendo, Ju-jutsu and several martial arts weaponry including Sai, Tonfa, Nunchucks and Jo. He currently holds a black belt 4th Dan in Modern Arnis under Grandmaster Presas, 5th Dan in Zikdoka Karate under Shihan Louelle and Tino Ceberano who were direct students of Master Gogen Yamaguchi more popularly known as “The Cat” and 3rd Dan in Japanese/European Jujutsu. He also practiced kendo for 4 years in Grandmaster Ernesto Presas gym.

Sir Mark (as we all affectionately call him) has taught Arnis and practical self-defense in the NBI (National Bureau of Investigation). It is a special Philippine Government Agency whose counterpart in the United States is the FBI (Federal Bureau of Investigation). He also taught the security protection detail of French and Italian dignitaries in the Philippines. He is now currently a police officer for a branch of Law Enforcement in the Philippines. Last year Sir Mark was posted in Mindanao specifically Zamboanga and Jolo where the dreaded Abu Sayaf and MILF reside, one of the most dangerous places in the Philippines.

Owners of Philippine Martial Arts Supplies
Arvino Logarta & Fhey Santos

Philippine Martial Arts Supplies started 5 years ago in 1999. With the growing demand and popularity for Filipino martial arts namely Arnis/Kali/Escrima all over the world, they started supplying to a group of instructors and middlemen who go abroad and sell martial arts products to their students and to martial arts stores. Filipino martial arts Supplies being martial artists themselves, they thought whom better to supply martial arts equipment to other martial artists than martial artists who use the same equipment.

The Philippine Martial Arts Supplies goal is to produce and distribute quality martial arts equipment for training and self-defense use. All of their products have been tested and used by them personally to ensure that customers receive items are fully functional both in the dojo and in the streets.

All of their weapons are made from premium exotic hardwoods such as Philippine Ebony otherwise known as "Iron Wood" and "Black Ivory" (Kamagong as it is called locally), make no misconceptions about the "Iron Wood", it's densely compact constitution makes it a very hard wood that could shatter or be broken when hit with a denser material like cement or concrete but why would the old master's use these items in their legendary "Death matches"? Also, Palm wood or Coco-wood (also known as "Bahi" locally) and premium Palasan and the rare Labsica rattan sticks.

Practitioners and enthusiasts from Kendo, Aikido, Iaido, Kobudo, Ninjutsu, Arnis /Kali/Escrima etc, will find that Philippine Martial Arts Supplies products are made from the best materials that nature has to offer, handcrafted in great detail to give maximum performance in practice and aesthetic beauty for your collection.

Philippine Martial Arts Supplies does not adhere to violence but when there is no choice we would like our customers to have an effective piece of equipment on their hands.

Contact Info

Philippine Martial Arts Supplies have two small provincial factories in the provinces and a shipping point in Manila, Philippines. Interested parties may go to the Website and Email them directly if they have questions about their products and they will happily reply.

All products from Philippine Martial Arts Supplies are handcrafted only after an order is placed to ensure the quality of the wooden weapons.

All products from Philippine Martial Arts Supplies can be custom made in terms of weight, size and dimensions in accordance to the wishes and specifications of the buyer.

- Custom made designs, logos, ensigns of schools, dojo's, associations etc, to be engraved on the weapons is available upon request with an accompanying engraving fee.
- Most of the Japanese wooden weapons made by Philippine Martial Arts Supplies are made of Philippine Ebony or "Iron Wood" or Kamagong, as it is known locally. This type of wood is an exotic wood known for its beauty and extreme durability.
- All "Iron Wood" products are wax finished. No artificial paints or varnishes are used in finishing our products thus giving you that hands-on natural feel of this exotic wood.
- These exquisitely crafted weapons can be used in rigorous training but they are also very ideal for collection and display because of their beauty.

Welcome to Sandata Crafts, home to some of the finest wooden martial arts weapons. We have high quality and high performance Japanese, Filipino, and other martial arts weapons. Our products are handcrafted in the Philippine Islands and made from exotic hardwoods such as Kamagong (Iron Wood / Philippine Ebony) and Bahi (Palm Wood).

Sandata Crafts takes a very personal approach to their customers; they do not use automated responses. There are no shopping carts on the website (due to the fact that most retail orders are highly customized), customers have to email Sandata for inquiries. This allows the people of Sandata Crafts to be able to personally speak to their customers so that they can understand the customer's specific needs.

Their basic aim is to provide the martial artist with excellent personalized service and quality of Philippine-made Filipino Martial Arts weapons. Sandata, as much as possible, tries to reply to every inquiry within 24. Many times, they are able to answer most inquiries in just minutes.

Owner, JM Taylor 25 years of age, resides in Quezon City, Metro Manila, Philippines. At the age of 11 for a year JM studied Aikido. But due to a fracture, he had to stop, and didn't continue his training until after the injury was totally healed.

JM began studying Hong Sing Kung Fu and Arnis Rapado for about 8 months in 2003. But again he was unable to continue his training because the gym he was training at closed down and he couldn't afford home training. JM later learned about a group in the Philippines training in Katori Shinto-ryu. This group is a branch of the Sugawara Martial Arts Institute, studying Katori Shinto-ryu, and Iwama style Aikido.

JM uses the Katori Shinto-ryu style ironwood bokken in class. He also uses a Bo, which his company produced, and soon Sandata Crafts will be coming out with a naginata that will be tested in the Katori Shinto-ryu dojo. Many Japanese sword fighting students would prefer his/her sword to be made in Japan, aside from promoting Filipino martial arts weapons, Sandata Crafts is also trying to establish the ironwood Japanese Martial Arts weapon line as a worthy alternative to the standard white oak JMA weapons. It is for people who want to try the same weapon in a different kind of wood, but still get the same quality and durability as the standard white oak.

It would be nice for Filipino martial arts practitioners to think of Philippine-made Filipino martial arts weapons as more desirable than Filipino martial arts products made elsewhere. JM and his business partners aim to help their country's export market, even if the company's sales are obviously much smaller compared to other major export products of the Philippines.

Although many other stores offer basically the same Philippine-made products as Sandata Crafts, their main goal is to provide quality weapons. Sandata Crafts ensures the best quality possible in every weapon, and has always replaced any rejected weapon sold to a customer.

Their weapons are made to order. They do not have a stockpile of weapons. This explains why it usually takes 2 to 3 weeks to get the weapon to the customer. They do it this way because most of the retail orders are customized weapons. Most of their clients want their weapons a certain length, weight, and/or have certain designs/names engraved on the weapons they purchase.

JM was fortunate in meeting the person that would become the main wood carver for Sandata's products, through his Arnis instructor, Master Limuel Bansa. When JM met his newly found wood carver, he had just graduated from college, and was working part-time, trying to get a couple of business ventures to work. Fortunately this worked out and Sandata Crafts was created.

	Carabao Horn Dulo-Dulo Similar to the Dulo-Dulo (Pasak/Yawara), but is shaped like the horn of a Carabao (the Philippine counterpart of the Buffalo).
Dulo-Dulo The Dulo-dulo is also known as Pasak or Yawara. It is approximately 7 inches in length. This product can come with a hole on one end so that you may use it as a key chain, which can double as a personal defense weapon.

Sandata's whole product line can be seen on their Website. They have, Bokken, Shoto, Tanto, Bo, Tonfa, Nunchaku, Kama, Arnis sticks, Arnis swords, Garote, Kris swords, Kris daggers, a regular dagger, knives, 3 types of dulo-dulo (ipon style, dos puntos, and carabao horn), and wooden knuckles. They give out free mini-daggers for certain orders. They also offer basic engraving services. Almost all weapons are made of Kamagong, but most of them can also be made of Bahi.

The arnis sticks and Bo can be made of rattan. Sometimes, they will get requests for entirely different kinds of weapons. For example, they were able to supply someone in Japan with a double wooden sword (soushintou).

Sandata Crafts will be releasing a whole new slew of Filipino martial arts weapons, some of which will be variations of what they already have. They will also be releasing weapons in a new type of hardwood, which they can't reveal at the time of this writing, but hopefully you'll visit the Sandata Crafts website and see them sometime soon in the future.

The Concept of Aycocho Arnis Korambit (AAK)

By: Frank Aycocho

What is Korambit? An ancient double bladed curve knife of Filipino; disguised as a farm tool during the Spanish time in the Philippines when carrying of the arnis stick was banned by the Spanish in 1764. The Korambit is a Filipino native word similar to Karambit, an Indonesian Kuntao and Penjak Silat weapon with origin from the Philippines farm tool, used to harvest palay and coconut. It is 12 inches total in length, with a sharp edge on one side while the Korambit invented by Sr. Master Frank Aycocho combines a farm tool and a shoe makers tool. It is designed for multipurpose uses in military combat hand and foot.

The Karambit of Emerson Knives (www.emersonknives.com) is different than AAK. The AAK is an innovation of Spada Y Daga, Spada - sword represents the stick in arnis, Korambit represents daga (dagger), in the sense of promoting sports competition in the Philippines, Arnis being one of Filipino National Sports. The AAK was presented at the Filipino Martial Arts Festival on July 22, 23, and 24, 2008.

Differences between the Karambit and the Korambit

The Korambit is a double bladed curve knife short for a quick maneuver of cutting at all direction within a twist of wrist followed by the flexibility of the body, hips, shoulder and pivoting of feet to flow on its momentum of motion. The finest techniques of close quarter combat, artistically designed for military combat fighting.

In the mechanics of the technical application which combines the art of Silat with an Arnis stick and the kerambit, one hand holds the baston and the other hand has the Korambit with four fingers inserted to the hole of Korambit handle for an option to grab and control an opponents' action and if you lose your grip on the opponent the opponent will be cut.

The kerambit a rubber knife is designed to provide training practice and for sports competition for safety reasons. The arnis stick shall be made of hard rubber for the same reason of safety to avoid injury rather than wearing a safety vest that slows down the reflexes of contestant.

The size, weight and length of martial arts weapon must be equal for both players and must be marked with colored chalk for visibility of marks to count and determine the winner.

The competition shall be 3 minutes per round with 3 rounds of competition. If in case of tie at the end of 3 rounds, one round shall be allowed, at the end of the extra round if points remains tie, another 3 minutes round shall be extended in a rule of martial arts in one contact first strike point and winner shall be declared even if the last 3 minutes extension is not consumed.

If one player loses a weapon in his hand, the fight shall continue and the opponent with the lost weapon shall continue to defend himself, "losing a weapon is not grounds for defeat," but he/she is not allowed to recover a lost weapon.

Light contact is allowed on selected parts of the body, Bleeding, eyes, genital and lips are prohibited targets and biting is also prohibited. 3 warnings for fouls are grounds for disqualification.

In respect to martial arts of any other nations style, allowing them to participate, display their own techniques in competition with unlimited selections of points is a way to promote peace, harmony and comradery among martial artist worldwide, we are in the future of mixed martial arts, but we have our right of identity of our culture and tradition, let us promote martial arts for sports, physical fitness and self defense.

Ian D. Valladarez
Continuous Wire Sculpture Artist

While in grade school, Ian Valladarez was fascinated with creating things which were unique and would express his ideas. Why work with wire? Ian explains that working with wire the way he does is very unique and almost impossible to duplicate.

It takes a lot of patience and creativity to create this kind of art work starting a piece is a skillful thought process in its self. First once started if not enough wire the piece is discarded. You may ask why? It is because each piece is created with one continuous strand of wire from beginning to completion, all done with his bare hands no tools used. Usually a small sculpture will take approximately 2 months to complete.

Each sculpture is for sale for this is the way Ian makes his living, selling his sculptures throughout the world.
